LONDON REPARATIONS CONFERENCE.

WHAT WILL FRANCE DO?

FLIGHT OF AUSTRIA.

LONDON, August 6.
The opening of the allied reparations conference in London to-morrow is awaited with keen interest as it is now generally recognised that a trade revival largely depends on the solution of the problems of reparations and international indebtedness. Interest centres in the attitude of France. M. Poincaré has been credited with a plan for settlement whereby France will agree to a reduction of Germany's obligations to £2,500,000 in return for cancellation of France's debt to Britain and Britain's renouncing any share in the indemnity. It is now reported, however, that as a result of the Balfour note the plan in regard to inter-allied debts has been eliminated from M. Poincaré's programme. It is anticipated that M. Poincaré will submit a more moderate proposal to the conference and it is suggested that France might follow the bold and generous lead of Britain in offering to accept £350,000,000 in settlement of debts amounting to £3,400,000.

LONDON, August 6.

The result of the London reparations conference is anxiously awaited in Austria. Reuter's Vienna correspondent says that the conference appears to be Austria's last hope. It is feared that any further delay in granting the promised assistance to Austria is likely to be very disastrous owing to the increase of the banknote circulation to 768 milliard crowns. The cost of living in Vienna nearly doubled last month and many necessities are out of the reach of the bulk of the people. Meanwhile, messages from Sofia report that Bulgaria following Germany's example, is demanding a three years' moratorium and a reduction of Bulgaria's debt. The inter-allied commission has referred the matter to the Entente.

Italy's attitude to the conference is likely to be influenced by her own internal situation in regard to which Rome reports say that the Premier Facta stated that the government had decided to take very vigorous measures to restore order because the troubles were paralysing the life of the State and creating an impossible situation.

DELEGATES ARRIVE.

LONDON, August 6.

The French, Italian and Belgian delegations headed by M. Poincaré, Signor Schanzer and M. Theunis respectively, numbering forty persons, arrived this evening. All preferred to await the conference before making statements.

GORDON BENNETT BALLOON RACE.

GENEVA, August 7.

Over fifty thousand spectators this afternoon watched the start of the Gordon Bennett balloon race. There were nineteen competitors—three each from Belgium, the United States, Switzerland, Italy and France and two each from Britain and Spain. The wind was blowing in the direction of Austria and Bulgaria.

ANOTHER PIRACY.

CHINESE STEAMER "SUI YIK" HELD UP.

A piracy on the coast between Hongkong and Swatow, was reported by the s.s. "Suiyik," on her arrival in port late last night.

According to the master of the vessel, the "Suiyik" left here for Shanhai early on the morning of July 31 with 180 passengers and a large quantity of cargo.

Prior to the ship's departure all the passengers were searched by the police for arms, but no weapons were found. As the vessel was leaving the port, she took in tow at Shaikwan, a large junk carrying material for the Chinese Government Ammunition Factory at Shanhai.

The ship arrived at the Customs Station in Swatow without incident and continued her journey to Shanhai at 1.30 p.m. After the "Suiyik" had been 1½ hours from Swatow, revolver shots suddenly rang out among the passengers, and simultaneously an armed man rushed into the wheel-house and held up the master. Three other men then entered the wheel-house. They all spoke Hakka, and ordered the man to steer to Tantan. From here they went to Samkok, where the pirates, having looted the vessel during the voyage, went ashore in three junks which came alongside the vessel.

The pirates cleaned out the compartment and took possession of all the passengers' valuables and money which they took with them to the junks.

There were altogether about 20 pirates among the passengers and they were all armed with revolvers.

The ship's guards, six in number, offered resistance, but they were overpowered by the pirates and one was wounded. One of the passengers who resisted the looters was also shot.

The pirates are thought to have joined the ship as passengers in Hongkong and concealed their arms on board at any other places of call.

Reides taking $3,500 in cash from the compartment and a large quantity of jewellery, clothing and money from the passengers, the value of which is not ascertainable here, owing to all the victims having gone ashore at Shanhai, the pirates took two rifles and two revolvers from the guards, and a large quantity of ammunition from the ship's armory. Her cargo of rice, salt fish and machinery was not touched.

REBELS IN PARAGUAY.

BUENOS AIRES, August 6.

A report from Paraguay states that the Government troops have now got the rebels on the run. It is reported that the rebels include a German airman, an ex-Captain of the German air force who flew over the Government steamer "Reguine." Bombs were dropped but the machine was driven off by fire from the vessel.

JAPAN AND THE SOVIET.

A REPORT DENIED.

PARIS, Aug. 6.

The Japanese Embassy has categorically denied a report that Japan intends to negotiate in Moscow with the Soviet government and says that Japan never contemplated the possibility of recognising the Moscow government but merely consented to negotiate with the Chita government in regard to the security of the lives and property of Japanese nationals in the districts of East Siberia evacuated by the Japanese.

MAJOR BLAKE'S PROGRESS.

MUCH ENGINE TROUBLE.

AGRA, August 6.

The airman Major Blake while proceeding to Allahabad from Delhi was forced to land owing to rain, also renewed engine trouble which is repeatedly delaying him. Major Blake is endeavouring to obtain another machine for his flight to Calcutta.

TERRIBLE RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

PASSENGERS SCALDED TO DEATH.

ST. LOUIS, August 6.

Sixty people were killed and 100 injured as the result of an all-steel express crashing into a local train at Sulphur Springs. The engine of the express literally ploughed through the wooden carriages. Many victims were scalded to death by escaping steam from the engine. Others were drowned in the cars as they rolled over in the water alongside the track. Wreckage was strewn for a quarter of a mile and the rails were twisted grotesquely.

LATER.

It is now stated that from thirty-five to forty persons were killed and sixty injured at Sulphur Springs. Relief trains were rushed to the scene. The cause of the disaster has not yet been determined.

DISTURBED ITALY.

FASCISTI ON THE WARPATH.

ROME August 6.

The country now appears to be calming down but it has been confirmed that during the excitement the fascisti sacked the headquarters of the Labour Union at Parma, wrecked the offices of the Socialist newspaper Avanti at Milan and occupied the palace of San Giorgio, at Genoa, where the plenary sessions of the Genoa conference were held and which are the headquarters of the harbour authorities. After a conflict with the police wherein two fascisti were killed and some injured the Government empowered the military authorities at Genoa and Milan to maintain order and control the police.

THE WRONG NUMBER.

STREET BOOKMAKER'S PHONE
TO POLICE.

An amusing story of a betting-alp collector's temporary disappearance from his usual haunts comes from a South London police station.

Recently a police inspector picked up the telephone receiver and was ordered in a strange voice, "Take these bets." "Righto," was the ready answer.

An occasional "Yes" assured the man that his request was being complied with, and when he said finally, "That's the lot," he was asked, "What shall I do now?"

"Enter them up, of course. I am Billy Smart, the tout," came the reply.

The receiver of the message wore a broad grin as he replied, "Well Billy, you're not so smart as you may think you are. I'm Inspector Blank; I know where you're speaking from, and I've sent a man—"

The sharp click in the inspector's ear gave warning that Billy had left the callbox hurriedly.

EVOLUTION OF BIRDS.

TRACED BACK TO REPTILES.

Evolutionists believe that man arose from the basic stock that produced the apes. The ancestry of birds (writes Lee S. Grandall, Curator of Birds at New York Zoological Park

in the New York Herald) can be retraced still further to none other than the lowly reptile. Fossil birds, to which we must look for our evidence, are almost as scarce as fossil men.

In spite of their relative scarcity, and the miracle of chance by which they must be found a few bird fossils are known. From the Cretaceous rocks of western Kansas, the age of which is believed to be from six to seven million years, we have two ancient creatures, obviously birds, yet undeniably of reptilian affinities.

Ichthyornis, the size of a pigeon, had strongly developed wings and evidently was a bird of strong flight.

Hesperornis, on the other hand, was a highly specialised aquatic species, which depended on its strong legs for its motive power, the wings being reduced to mere vestiges. Yet these two birds, even at that remote time so well adapted to their respective environments and so divergent in character, had reptilian jaws, plentifully equipped with strong, efficient teeth.

INTERMEDIATE FORM.

But from the Jurassic period, several millions of years earlier, we have two fossils that rest at the foundation of every evolutionist's belief. This creature, known as Archaeopteryx, was so perfectly intermediate between reptiles and birds as to leave little to be desired. The lizard head and jaws well armed with teeth; the tail was perfectly reptilian, except that from each component bone sprang a feather at each side;

its well developed wings must have been capable of at least some powers of flight, but three fingers of the fore limb, instead of being encased in skin, were free and each was armed with a strong lizard's claw.

Feathers are the insignia of the bird.

Teeth have disappeared entirely and the jaws now form a more or less horny beak. Faint traces of teeth are believed to be traceable in the jaws of baby birds, and it is possible that further examination of bird embryos may reveal better evidence.

But no adult bird is known to day in which teeth still exist.

EVIDENCE IN DOMESTIC FOWL.

The bird still carries on its legs the scales of the reptile, a conspicuous badge of origin and relationship. The tumble chicken, dressed for market and hanging in rows in every butcher's shop, presents mute evidence, seen daily by thousands, but recognised by few.

Less conspicuous but perhaps more convincing are the claws, usually rudimentary, which many birds still retain on their finger tips. The digits of the fore limb have been so concocted that they have little of the appearance of those of the reptile yet they may still be traced. In most birds only the thumb and first finger are plainly seen. The thumb exists as the free joint near the bend of the wing, while the first finger is at the extreme end. In many young birds and some adults these fingers bear unmistakable claws. In the ostriches emus and cassowaries they are large and well developed. In the ducks and rails they are smaller but present nevertheless. Usually these claws are merely leftovers and appear to have no useful function.

In certain restricted portions of northern South America lives a bird known as the hoatzin, strange and weird as the adults may be it is the young birds that really amaze us. For the thumb and forefinger are armed with sharp, recurved claws, better developed than in any other known bird, and, what is more important they are entirely functional.

CHURCH NOTES.

Among the passengers on the ill-fated P. & O. liner "Egypt," was Sister Rhoda, of the Wantage Community.
She had formerly been a novice in the Oxford Mission to Calcutta at Berisal, but there her health broke down, and she came home and entered the Sisterhood at Wantage, where she was eventually professed, and was on her return to India to join the branch at Pooné. She went down with the ship.The Brethren correspond to the Times describes what he was told of the last scene."Sister Rhoda (he says), was one of the women who were drowned, refused to enter a boat, asking that somebody else should take her place if there was not room for all, and that she would wait for the last. She then knew on the deck in prayer, and was there when the "Egypt" went down."This is the beautiful kind of Christian self-sacrifice which makes us feel the strength of our faith. The test is real when we are brought face to face with death. With such a Christian as Sister Rhoda death is merely the closing of one's eyes in one existence to open them immediately in another existence of service, so that the terrors of death are gone.In a book called "My Moorland Patients," a medical doctor Mr.
R. W. E. Bishop, writing of his own experiences, gives some delightful anecdotes on the simplicity of these farmers untouched to an extent by the modern rush. He says that the people were not too easy to get on with and had very decided opinions on small matters.The vicar once asked for a subscription before the end of the financial year."I never pays aforehand," said the farmer.

"Are you sure?"

"Never in a week o' Sundays; nobbut feels pay aforehand.""Oh, I suppose you never put stamps on your letters; always pay at the end of railway journeys and all entertainments."

He left the farmer speechless.

Sometimes the simplicity of these farmers leaves one amazed. An artist, staying in the country, had painted a picture of Moses in the burning bush. The farmer, seeing this, was much impressed."So that's little Moses? It's loikely he's bin dead a sight o' years."

"Who long, think ye?"

"Oh, replied the artist, "about three thousand years.""Three thousand years?" gasped the farmer, "and ye've painted him real after three thousand years?"

"Yes," modestly answered the artist.

"I tell 'ee what it be. Yah's yan'o't cleverest fellows o' ye ever set eyes on."Then followed by a long pause, at last the farmer broke out,"I wish ye'd come an' pent me faither."The artist hesitated. He wanted to leave but at last agreed, telling the farmer to have ready the old gentleman the next afternoon in his best clothes."Ave! and gentleman ready: replied the farmer, as if he had not heard aught."Wyn, he's bin dead forty years or meir.""Then it will be impossible for me to paint if he is dead.""Ye can't pent 'im when 'ees only been dead forty years; And ye've pent'd Moses who's dead three thousand years?"So the artist had to try. And the comment of the farmer on the result was:—

"Aye, but he has altered."

Reports on the Anglo-Catholic Congress at Liverpool show that it has been a great success, and has had a most healthy stimulating effect on definite churchmanship in the North. One criticism has been given with regard to the papers delivered by the speakers—they were rather too learned. They were more fitted for the professor of theology than for the ordinary churchman, so that many people came away with only a general idea of what was meant. The Catholic religion is the faith for all and it is a mistake to rob it of its Gospel simplicity when elucdated before a public body of church-people.The Chancellor of the Diocese of Liverpool has given in the Consistory Court a considered judgment in a faculty case which raised a new point.
The application was to set apart a plot of unconsecrated ground: surrounding a church for the Christian burial of ashes after cremation. For reasons of health the burial of bodies would not be permitted in this ground. The Chancellor, who had ascertained the mind of the Bishop, admitted the suitability of the ground, granted the faculty, and sanctioned regulations for the use of the plot and a table of substantial fees, of which, at the vicar's own request, four-fifths are to be appropriated to the upkeep of the plot. The lawfulness of the cremation of the bodies of Christians has now been recognized by an ecclesiastical court. It had already been admitted by Convocation, which ten years ago, sanctioned a service for use when cremation is preferred to burial. There will doubtless be regrets at this decision,and some expostulation; Christian sentiment has always favoured burial, which was taken over from the Jewish Church, maintained in opposition to pagan custom, and deemed to be hallowed by that Holy Sepulchre with which every Christian grave is linked. But it must be remembered that no fundamental principle is involved. Minucius Felix, writing in the first half of the third century against the assertion that cremation made resurrection impossible, said the Christian feared nothing from cremation but adhered to the old and better custom. It is only within the last forty years that the Roman Church has forbidden her members to demand cremation for themselves or for others;
and her motive is explicitly declared to be that cremation on the Continent is closely associated with irreligion and materialism. Her discipline is precautionary, and since there is nothing directly opposed to any dogma of the Church in the practice of cremation that discipline might conceivably be modified.Prominent among the passengers who arrived at Southampton a few days ago on the "Empress of France," says the London and China Express of June 29, were a number of the passengers to Vancouver on the "Empress of Asia," including Sir Edward and Lady Pearce, of Shanghai.Sir Edward is one of Shanghai's leading business men, and the honour conferred on him on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales to Hongkong, whether Sir Edward went as one of the Shanghai representatives, was one that met with widespread approbation. For thirty or thirty-five years Sir Edward has been a prominent figure in the British community at Shanghai, and for a long period held the responsible position of chairman of the International Council. Other passengers in the party included Mr. R. Bellion, Hongkong; Mr. and Mrs. A. Brooke-Smith, Shanghai; Dr. A. O. Bryson, Shanghai; Mr.
G. D. Coutts, Miss B. Coutts, Shang-

TRUTH, JUSTICE, PUBLIC SERVICE.

HONGKONG, MONDAY, AUGUST 7, 1922

REGISTRATION OF PERSONS.

This subject is so profoundly important, and is bound to create so much interest and concern throughout the British Empire, enhancing Hongkong's already somewhat sinister reputation for reactionary legislation, that we cannot afford to leave the discussion of it to our irresponsibly cheerful contributor "Adversarius." He dealt with it on Saturday with some seriousness of feeling underlying his humour; but we cannot help thinking that even "comic relief" is out of place in such a tragedy. It is no less. It is tragic that we should have officials mentally capable of designing such legislation. It is tragic that we should have legislators so intellectually and morally blind as to be able to assent to it. It will be tragic if our public does not awake to the mischief and menace of it. One of our contemporaries with surprising mildness has asked for "official assurance" that the Registration of Persons Bill is not intended as a preliminary to industrial conscription. Such an assurance will probably be forthcoming, and it will not be worth the wind expended in expressing it. There is, there can be, no point in compulsory registration unless it be a step to the compulsory employment of the abilities so registered. So far as we know, there has never been any satisfactory explicit declaration of the objects and reasons of the first registration law. We have heard it suggested that it was a good thing to give the police and the authorities more power over Bolsheviks who might come here to infect us with their pernicious ideas. In that case it could be excused as a piece of panic legislation. Now that no one is any longer scared of the Bolsheviks' bigie, the time has come, obviously, to repeal the Ordinance and abolish its extraordinary and un-English powers. It has occurred to some one, it seems, to utilize the discarded weapon for another purpose altogether, as a man might, on giving up shooting, use his rifle as a kitchen poker, first sending it to the smithy for a few structural alterations. That it would be cheaper to buy a new poker was overlooked. The old registration was to detect undesirable. No longer deemed necessary, the marvellous intellect responsible for it thought of using it to detect desirables. These desirables, as we proved recently in a splendid way, need no detection, and certainly not detection under penalty. Any friendly invitation from the Government to give it the information desired would be promptly, thoroughly, and enthusiastically responded to. The Government must know that. Yet it prefers to compel these people to register, gives police officers extraordinary powers over them, and in general treats them as a lot of lazy shirkers. If the Government, doing this, has the cheek to offer assurance that there is no intention toward industrial conscription, it will in the same breath be confessing to one of the most ungrateful, sweeping, and gratuitous insults ever offered to a British community. Save as a preliminary to industrial conscription, the Bill lacks all point. It is as unnecessary as it is offensive. We hope to see it thrown out at the next Council meeting with shouts of scornful laughter, so as to prove that our legislators have awakened from their nightmare, and that commonsense and British traditions have not completely deserted this Colony. Even then we shall have to live down the shameful fact that such a proposal was ever seriously made.

SWATOW TYPHOON.

FURTHER DETAILS OF TERRIBLE CATASTROPHE.

HUGE DEATH ROLL.

RELIEF FROM HONGKONG.

On Saturday the China Mail published a story brought by the s.s. Kueichow of the terrible havoc wrought in Swatow by the typhoon which struck that port on Wednesday last. Amplifications of that account show that the port has suffered terribly. The casualties on Saturday were stated to be 5,000, but later estimates put the number around 20,000, while one ship's officer who has been to Swatow considers that 40,000 would not be a surprising estimate. The town itself is a complete wreck. Apart from the damage caused by the terrific wind there is the devastation following the tidal wave which inundated the town to a depth of some feet. Passengers who have arrived here from Swatow tell of the terrible scenes ashore—the numbers of dead, the wreckage of boats and houses strewn all over the place and carried far inland.

STRANDED SHIPS.

Shipping in the harbour suffered badly. It is now learned that the Shantung and the Tungshing were driven right across the harbour and are now lying high and dry on the side of a hill. Observers are of opinion that the Shantung can be refloated but the Tungshing is lying on some rocks and it is thought that it will be impossible to get her off. The Choyang is ashore on Port Island, nine miles north of Swatow, and is reported to be almost a hopeless wreck. The Wa Ming, a Chinese-owned boat, is on the mud flat up the river. The Yingchow is detained in Swatow with a damaged bridge and her steam steering gear and quadrant smashed. Small craft came in for a very bad time. Lifted on the tidal wave they were borne far inland or smashed beyond recognition.

IN SWATOW.

The following description of Swatow was given this morning by Mr. C. Smith, chief engineer of the s.s. "Hydrangea": "We arrived at Swatow on Saturday morning in beautiful weather. Before entering the harbour, on the left hand side were the Shantung and the Tungshing. The Shantung was high and dry at the foot of the mountain, about a mile from deep water, while 400 or 500 yards astern was the Tungshing lying between two rocks, one fore and the other aft. Further up the river was the Chinese steamer "Wa Ming," an ex-German ship. She is on the mud flats. We landed from a ship's boat. The boats in Swatow are charging passengers $5 a head to get ashore. Here dead bodies were floating in the water. Inside the Customs breakwater was a lot of wreckage. One of the mooring lights by the buoys was high and dry. What caused the most suffering was the tidal wave which rose from five to seven feet and lasted for eight hours. We intended to go into the city but could not get through owing to the wreckage, while the stench was awful. I interviewed some Chinese merchants who said they thought the death toll would reach about 40,000 and placed the damage at between twenty and thirty million dollars. This includes not only the city of Swatow but the surrounding country which came in the track of the typhoon. The merchants were of the opinion that the country people must have suffered greatly from the rush of water which spread inland for miles, right up to the foot of the mountains."

SHORT OF COFFINS.

One great difficulty they are experiencing in Swatow is the work of providing coffins. In the mission compound I saw about 300 bodies waiting burial. Everyone has suffered, rich and poor alike. The place presents a terrible aspect. The majority of the houses are damaged. The only places which seem to have stood the blow are the Post Office and the Customs Office which are built of reinforced concrete. Thick telegraph poles buried some feet in the ground have been blown down and some big trees in the main street have been uprooted. The food situation looks like being serious. We gave our food to Europeans. The cargo on the ship had to be brought back as there were no means of discharging.

Mr. Smith was in the Kinshan during the 1905 typhoon. That, he says, was nothing to the one which struck Swatow. He was also through the Canton typhoon in 1905 and another at Foochow, but here again he says there is no comparison. While the pontoons belonging to B. and S. Jardine's were smashed, that belonging to the China Merchants escaped lightly. The Customs lost their launch, leaving them with a couple of gigs, while the lighthouse tender which was lying in the basin broke in two. It is expected that a couple of months will elapse before anything again approaching normal conditions obtain in Swatow.

THE SHANTUNG.

Passengers from the Shantung were brought to Hongkong by the Hydrangea, and they speak of their thrilling experiences on board the stranded ship. The Shantung arrived in Swatow on the afternoon of the 2nd from Shanghai. Observatory reports indicated the approach of a typhoon and towards the evening the wind increased in intensity. Two anchors were down and when one of the cables snapped the ship began to drift. Most of the passengers did not realise what was happening until there came a succession of bumps. The ship eventually stranded on a hill about ten miles from the town of Swatow. The worst of the blow was over about at 5 a.m. and later a fishing boat was signalled. By this passengers were taken to Swatow where they boarded the Hydrangea.

TYPHOON "ONE VAST BATTLEFIELD."

"HYDRANGEA" OFFICER'S ACCOUNT.

Following the arrival on Saturday morning of the B. and S. steamer "Kueichow" the second vessel to reach Hongkong from Swatow (where she arrived three days after the typhoon) was the Chuan On steamer "Hydrangea" which arrived in the harbour yesterday morning.

Giving an account of his experiences the Chief Officer, Mr. E. H. Lawrence said that the first unusual thing that attracted the attention of those aboard the "Hydrangea" was the disappearance of most of the big fishing stakes which should have been showing in the Sugar Loaf Pass.

Next there was the Shantung and the Tungshing which apparently had been driven right across the harbour of Swatow, high and dry on the side of the hills. As they got further up the harbour they saw a jumbled mass of buildings, some blown down and others with their roofs off. Wherever they looked they could see the disastrous effects of the storm. Godowns were wrecked, pontoons broken and sunk, wharves broken to bits, three steamers aground, the two already mentioned and the "Wa Ming," junks and cargo boats entirely destroyed—this was only some of the enormous damage done. It was impossible to describe the place; it was nothing more or less than one vast battlefield. A conservative estimate put the loss of life in Swatow alone at something in the neighbourhood of 10,000, and as it was reported that the tidal wave went up the river and extended for many miles inland, it was not an unreasonable conjecture that there were double that number of casualties in all. The whole place had been devastated. There was not a house or thing that has not been damaged; the place was full of dead bodies, the stench was unbearable and the streets were blocked with all manner of rubbish.

"WORST DISASTER YET."

"I have been on the China Coast for 38 years and this is far and away the worst disaster I have seen," the Chief Officer said. "I was for 19 years in Manila, where the typhoons 'grow,' and have been through a good many of them. I rode out a heavy typhoon in the 'Fausang' when the ship was nearly lost on the Gangway Rock about three years ago, and two years ago on 5th November next when in the 'Devawongse' I was in another when in Vungro Bay behind Cape Varilla. But this one beats them all. The tidal wave which swept over the town was responsible for enormous damage. The whole district was inundated and practically all the rice provisions are a total loss. Unless immediate relief is sent the remaining population will be starving in a couple of days. They were already feeling the pinch when we came away. The Harbour Master had to come to the 'Hydrangea' to get some cloth. We gave him a shoulder of mutton, some butter and other things we could spare, which was not very much as the ship being on a short run carries but little in the way of spare provisions."

USELESS AS A PORT.

The "Hydrangea" took to Swatow some 200 tons of cargo, but as all the wharves were demolished and the cargo boats smashed up, it was impossible to unload and they had to bring it all back. Of a hundred lighters, only eight remained. All that the boat landed was 38 bags of mail and returned with 60 bags and 61 passengers. They did not take on a pound of cargo. Mr. Lawrence remarked upon the fact that practically all the buoys in the harbour were left intact. He estimated that it would take at least two months before Swatow could once again be got into working order as a port. At present it was useless for vessels, other than those which went up for relief purposes, to call.

NO EUROPEAN DEATHS.

Mr. Lawrence confirmed the news that there had been no deaths among the European population. He mentioned that one old European lady had been struck about the head by falling masonry, while another of 80 years, who had relatives in Hongkong, mentally collapsed under the strain. The damage in the European settlement was nothing like so great as in Swatow itself; but many roofs were lifted and the front walls of some of the houses were blown in. On the Swatow side he said it was quite a common sight to see solid concrete walls razed to the ground. All the trees down the central avenue for a distance of 200 yards were rooted up and thrown all over the place.

Messrs. Stocker and Woods, the pilots, have lost their boats, the former's house at Double Island has been considerably damaged and the latter's practice destroyed.

Dead bodies and carcasses are floating about everywhere and a large number are being recovered from among the debris.

The Customs buildings suffered heavily. Chronometers were washed away and an instrument used for meteorological work was discovered on the bund all covered with mud. Old Customs records are a total loss.

LIKE PIECES OF PAPER.

The roofs of the lighthouses at the Cape of Good Hope and the Sugar Loaf Island have been swept away, but the lights are burning.

"The scene in the typhoon shelter must have been one of indescribable confusion, the Chief Officer continued. All the boats were smashed up and I would not expect one person in a hundred to come out of it alive. "I saw posts which carry the electric wires buried between eight and ten feet in the ground literally snapped off. "Everything must have been blown about like pieces of paper. If you did not see it with your own eyes no man could imagine such terrible damage could be done in such a short time. The Commissioner of Customs had a very narrow escape, just managing to get out of his house before it was blown to pieces. From the damage done, Mr. Lawrence estimated the velocity of the wind at between 95 and 100 miles an hour. He mentioned incidentally that nothing could stand against a wind with a velocity of 117 miles.

PLIGHT OF THE PEOPLE.

After the flood has come for the people of Swatow the famine. Their plight is pitiable. Homeless, they now find themselves without food and short of water because the tidal wave that swept over the town has filled the wells with brine. Potable water was being sold at Swatow, after the typhoon, at $5 a canful. It is reckoned that unless relief is sent immediately the whole population will be starving in a couple of days and the Hongkong Government, on learning this, called a special meeting of the Legislative Council and voted $10,000 towards meeting immediate necessities, also ordering 50 tons of rice and other supplies to be sent at once to Swatow, consigned to the British Consul there. Swatow merchants in Hongkong are also taking steps to inaugurate relief funds and to despatch foodstuffs to the local Chamber of Commerce for distribution amongst the distressed inhabitants of the port.

The Government has decided to send up famine relief as soon as possible by special ship.

Edward Kennedy, an unemployed American seaman, pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and incapable at the Magistrate's this morning. Mr. Lindell let him go with a severe caution as he had been locked up for two nights.

H. M. S. "Magnolia" collided with a large junk yesterday, the sailing craft being badly holed and sinking in a few minutes. The junk was loaded with 85,000 bricks and sank right in the tracks of the Star Ferries. A danger flag has been fixed to the mast of the junk.

CORRESPONDENCE.

PROTEST NO. 1. NEXT PLEASE

[To the Editor of the "China Mail,"]

Sir,—Be they gods or devils that direct the affairs of this Colony it is but the act of any man who values his humanity to play the Ajax and defy them. The lightning may treat us as it treated Ajax; still we shall have borne witness to all that is British in us. Atta Boy.

The registration Bill (which should ever become an Ordinance) is every thing that Adversarius calls it. Nay, it is more. It is the invention of men who, too independent to fight the Prussian, imbibed all his philosophy, so that we have the spectacle of Prussianism defeated in the field, defeated (as regards its philosophy) at those centres of learning which most firmly upheld and taught it before the war, but now all a blowing in the legislator's garden of needs. The first German Ordinances at Home (the Insurance Act and its successors) found the people asleep. Now they are aroused, and no London paper would dare to defend such a Bill as that now under discussion. Must our Colonies be the scene of enactments which no Homo G's government would have the effrontery to introduce? Are we to see the centre of the Empire throwing off the bonds of servile legislation while the fringes gaily bind themselves therewith?

As a public meeting requires permission from the authorities, which would probably be withheld, I can see no possible way for us who value our liberty but to inaugurate a society, a body of men who will bind themselves to refuse obedience and endure possible prosecution. Let those who feel in this matter as I do forward their names to Adversarius. He can then state in the columns of the paper how many of these there are, and the knowledge may deter the authorities. They cannot prosecute even two hundred determined men. Even if it does not deter them from passing the Bill, surely civil disobedience on a large scale has proved effective in the past? To Hell with Prussianism! Put my name under that of Adversarius. Card enclosed.

Yours faithfully,
ANTI-PRUSSIAN.
Hongkong, August 6, 1922.

PROTEST NO. 2. WAKE UP.

[To the Editor of the "China Mail,"]

Sir,—I offer my humble support to your advertisement's denunciation of the Registration Bill. Cannot we have a public meeting to show our local junkies that we will not have such legislation?

Yours Truly
STRIKE VOLUNTEER

PROTEST THE THIRD 107 MORE WANTED.

[To the Editor of the "China Mail,"]

Sir,—Hitherto, as a comparatively new arrival, I have been regarding "Adversarius" as a buffoon. Saturday shows that his head is screwed on right. I am agog at the new Registration Bill, and ashamed that I waited for this lead before protesting. No one at Home would believe it without proof. Put my name down for any organized opposition that may come.

Yours truly,
ANTI-CONSCRIPTION.

FOURTH PROTEST. HURRY UP.

[To the Editor of the "China Mail,"]

Sir,—I am getting up an urgent, private petition to Col. John Ward M.P., enclosing your article of Saturday, a copy of the Bill, and etc. If, as I hope you will, you make further references, I suggest you send same to him as the most likely way to get it stopped.

Enclosed my card (not for publication.)

Yours truly
LIBERAL IMPERIALIST.

PROTEST NO. 5. ROLL UP, PLEASE.

[To the Editor of the "China Mail,"]

Sir,—As far as I can see the Registration of Persons Bill does not infringe my personal liberty, as I have no skill above the average; but I agree with you it is wrong in principle, and should not pass. I heartily agree to be strong opposition at the next reading, so it may be dropped after all.

Yours etc.,

SEAMEN'S WAGES.

STRIKE AT SHANGHAI.

CHINA MERCHANTS COY. INVOLVED.

SHANGHAI, August 5.
As a result of no answer being forthcoming from the China Merchants S. N. Company to a third letter from the Shanghai branch of the Chinese Seamen's Union demanding an increase in the scale wages of seamen similar to the agreement reached between the seamen and the shipowners at Hongkong, a strike on several China Merchant steamers is reported.

It is understood that an agreement was sometime ago reached with the other shipping companies and their employees. The China Merchants were not a party thereto but adopted a very strong attitude against increasing wages having granted an increase of five dollars last year.—Reuter.

CHINESE CABINET.

NEW APPOINTMENTS PROMULGATED.

SHANGHAI, August 6.

A Peking mandate issued early this morning promulgates the following cabinet: Premier, Tang Shaoyi; Minister for Foreign Affairs, Dr. Wellington Koo; Minister for the Interior, Tien Wn Lieh; Minister for Finance, Kuo Lin Hwei; Minister for War, Chang Shou Tseng; Minister for the Navy, Li Ting Siu; Minister for Agriculture, and Commerce, Lu Shun; Minister of Communications, Kuo Eng Hung; Pending Tan; Shao Yi, assumption Wang Chung Hui will act as Premier.

JAPAN AND WASHINGTON TREATIES.

Tokyo August 5.
The Prince Regent has sanctioned the Washington treaties.—Reuter.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Messrs. Lamont Bros., will offer a quantity of wine and brandy for sale on Thursday.

Entree closed on Tuesday at 6 p.m. for the night fete; to be held at the Victoria Recreation Club on Friday next.

Messrs. Deacon, Looker, Deacon and Horton have $200,000 they are prepared to advance on first class mortgages.

Major J.W. Clark, representing the Department of Land, Government, of British Columbia, is staying at the Hongkong Hotel.

It is expected that new conditions relative to the employment of cargo boats will be submitted to the Secretary for Chinese Affairs and the Harbour Master within the next few days.

A fine of $3, as well as an order to pay $4 compensation, was inflicted on Edward Sherman, an unemployed American seaman, who was drunk in the Seamen's Institute and threw a picture into the harbour.

"DEGRADED" DANCING.

HIRING OF PARTNERS CONDEMNED.

At a conference of the British Association of Teachers of Dancing at Aberdeen in mail week spirited attacks were made on modern dancing practices, particularly in night clubs, dancing palaces, and hotels.

Mr. J. D. MacNaughton, Glasgow, said the general tone of the ballroom was fast degenerating. Deportment was conspicuous by its absence, and the rules which must govern all good dancing were burlesqued or ignored. The police had got a move on at last, but surely the police knew that the frequenters of the lower-class clubs were only emulating what had been going on for a considerable time among some of those who frequented the most exclusive hotels and clubs. The first-class places were more dangerous than the secondary, because of their respectability and the confidence reposed in their good management.

The public could not shut their eyes to the fact that tragedy, after tragedy, was directly traceable to the environment of the modern dance emporium. The methods adopted of seducing men and women and hiring them out for gain as dance partners were both disgusting and degrading. The situation was much more serious than it was commonly believed to be.

NEW C.P.S. STEAMER.

THE "EMPERESS OF AUSTRALIA"

The "Empress of Australia" left the Clyde on June 1, for Vancouver, via the Panama Canal, and arrived at that port on the 19th July. She sailed from Vancouver on her maiden trip across the Pacific on the 29th July, and is due to arrive in Yokohama on the 9th August, Shanghai on the 13th, Manila on the 17th and Hongkong on the 19th August. This vessel has a tonnage of about 21,500, a length of 688 feet, and has been fitted to burn oil fuel. Her accommodation provides for over nine hundred European passengers in three classes. She is intended for service on the Pacific between Vancouver and Hongkong. In this service she will work in co-operation with a three other of the Company's vessels, the "Empress of Canada," "Empress of Russia" and "Empress of Asia."

A REPARATION VESSEL.

The "Empress of Australia" was built at the Vulcan Works, Stettin, for the Hamburg-America Line; and was originally named "Tirpitz". She was launched in 1913, but, owing to the war was not completed until 1921, when she was retained as a reparation tonnage, and was handed over to the British Government, from whom she was purchased by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Since the purchase the vessel has undergone a very extensive overhaul and has been adapted for burning oil fuel instead of coal. The public rooms have been entirely refurnished, and provision has been made for the accommodation of Asiatic storage passengers. The heating accommodation has also been brought into line with the particular requirements of the company, and new boats of the latest collapsible type have been fitted under existing lifeboats, these lifeboats being overhauled and thoroughly equipped for efficient service.

CONSTRUCTIONAL DETAILS.

The principal dimensions of the "Empress of Australia" are: Length, 688 ft.; breadth, 75 ft.; and depth, to upper deck, 45 ft. 2 1/2 in. She is of the shelter deck type, with a continuous bridge deck extending the full length of the vessel. Above the bridge deck there are lower and upper promenade decks extending fully half length of the vessel, and above the upper promenade deck there is a boat deck. There are two complete decks below the shelter deck, and lower and orlop decks at the fore end, and lower decks at the after end of the ship. The vessel has a straight stem, elliptical stern, three funnels and two masts, and has a very handsome appearance. The "Empress of Australia" is classed A1 at Lloyd's, has a full Board of Trade certificate as a passenger ship and is well subdivided by water-tight bulkheads. There is a cellular double bottom extending fore and aft for almost the complete length of the vessel. Oil fuel is carried in the forward bunkers, and there are large cargo compartments forward and aft of the engine and boiler rooms.

PASSENGER ACCOMMODATION.

Spacious and well-fitted accommodation is provided for about 400 first-class, 165 second class, 360 third-class, and 670 Asiatic stowage, together with a crew of about 520. The first class accommodation is arranged on "A," "B," "C," "D" and "E" decks in large staterooms for one, two, and three persons each, all these staterooms being fitted with beds, and there being no upper berths in any of the first-class rooms. In addition, there are eight large suites with private bath and toilet. The two suites on "B" deck and the two on "C" deck, each comprising a sitting room, dining room, bedroom, bath-room, and toilet, maid or valet's room, and also a large boxroom. The suites are fitted up in a luxurious style, and the salon has very large square windows at ship's side, giving it an extremely light and airy appearance. Two other large suites on this deck forward each contain a sitting room, bedroom, bath-room and toilet, also a large boxroom, and each suite is so arranged that a large additional bedroom can be added if required. The other two aftermost suites on this deck are so arranged that they can be let as a large bedroom with private sitting room and toilet, a sliding door being fitted between the two rooms. Two other large suites each comprising a sitting room, bedroom, private bathroom and toilet, also large boxroom are situated on "C" deck amidships.

DINING SALOONS.

There is a large dining saloon for first-class passengers situated on "C" deck, which is capable of accommodating over 330 people at one sitting, the tables being arranged for small parties of from two to six people. In addition, there are two small private dining saloons leading off the main dining saloon, each of these being capable of seating twenty persons. The total seating accommodation is, therefore, over 370 at one sitting. The main dining saloon is one of the most luxurious in the fleet. It has a very large central dome, or well, extending two deck heights, fitted with large opening windows on to the "A" deck passageways, and having three large carved brass chandeliers in the dome. Four large paintings, copies of old masters, are hung on the sides of this dome. The dining room is decorated in the Louis XVI style, walls and ceiling being white enameled, antique finish with gilt enrichment, and the furniture is of mahogany. At the after end of the dining saloon there is a large musicians' gallery.

OTHER PUBLIC ROOMS.

The lounge for first-class passengers is situated on "A" deck and is a large compartment decorated in the Empire style, the wall and ceiling being finished in green with gilt enrichments. A feature of this lounge is the absence of pillars, the roof being built on the cantilever principle with a large decorative glazed dome. Four large carved gilt sixteen-light torchiers together with the ceiling fixtures, provide brilliant lighting at night, and there are ten large oval windows in the room. The floor is of parquetry, covered with carpets, the centre carpet being removable to provide suitable dancing space. The furniture is of satin wood with carved and gilded enrichments, and upholstered in silk with curtains to suit, the colour scheme being violet and brown. The first class ladies' room, which is situated on "A" deck, adjacent to the lounge, is decorated in the Louis XVI style finished in white enamel with gilt enrichment. This room is furnished with china cabinets, and settees. The first class smoke room on "A" deck, is in the Louis XVI style with oak panelled walls and white ceiling. Tapestry and leather covered chairs and settees, card tables, writing tables, and cigar cabinet comprise the furnishing of this room. The first class writing room on "A" deck off the main entrance hall is decorated in Louis XVI style, with tinted walls and white enameled ceiling, and the furniture is of mahogany. There is a first class card room on "A" deck on the port side aft of the smoke room, and a large verandah cafe at after end of this deck.

SWIMMING BATHS AND PROMENADES.

A children's room is arranged for on starboard side after end of "A" deck. A large swimming bath for first class passengers, situated on "E" deck, is decorated in the Pompeian style, and fitted with individual dressing rooms, lavatory and showers. There is also an electric bath on "C" deck, fitted with the most up-to-date appliances. The main entrance hall on "A" deck is finished in white enamel, and has a large circular dome light. Two wide staircases and two passenger lifts lead from this entrance down to all the first class accommodation. At the forward end of the hall there are two kiosks, one for flowers and one for general sales. Both ladies' and gentlemen's barbers' shops are provided on "C" deck, and, in addition to the foregoing, there is an information bureau, stenographer, manicurist, dispensary, etc. provided for. The first class promenade space is extensive, there being over 300 ft. on "A" deck, and 100 ft. on "B" deck. Toward forward end of "A" deck is screened off in steel, with large glass windows for about 70 ft. on each side.

SECOND AND THIRD CLASS ACCOMMODATION.

The second class passengers are accommodated on "B" and "F" decks in staterooms for two, three and four persons each. All these staterooms are large and well fitted up, and are of the Bibby type. The second class dining saloon is situated on "C" deck, and is finished in white enameled walls and ceiling. It is arranged to accommodate 148 people at one sitting. On "B" deck there is a second class ladies' lounge decorated in white enamel, with silk panelled walls and with satinwood furniture. There is also a second class smoke room, with mahogany panelled walls and white ceiling, and fitted up with writing tables, card tables, seats and arm chairs, upholstered in green leather. Ample promenade space is provided for the second class passengers on "C" deck. The third class passengers are accommodated in rooms on "B," "F" and "G" decks. These staterooms accommodate from four to six persons each, and are fitted up in the latest style for this class on the Pacific service. The third class dining saloon, situated on "D" deck, is capable of seating 184 persons at one sitting. A third class lounge, also a third class smoke room are provided for on "C" deck, and ample promenade space is arranged for third class passengers on "D" deck aft. The Asiatic stowage passengers are accommodated on "B," "F" and "G" decks forward in open berths.

KITCHENS AND PANTRIES.

The captain and officers are accommodated in rooms at the forward end of the boat and "A" decks; the engineers are on "D" deck, and the remainder of the crew are on "D," "E" and "F" decks. All the crew accommodation has been entirely rearranged and brought up to date. The kitchens and pantries for the first and second class are situated on "D" decks below, and between the first and second class dining saloons, and separate stairways have been arranged into each saloon, ensuring a quick and efficient service. All the latest improvements have been supplied, and these spaces are equipped in the most up-to-date fashion. Separate kitchens and pantries are fitted up forward and aft for the third class and Asiatic stowage. The vessel is ventilated and heated in a very elaborate manner the air of the public rooms and cabins being changed automatically every few minutes without creating any draught.

EQUIPMENT.

The cargo handling equipment is operated by powerful steam winches, and is fitted with the most modern requirements. It is operated by hydraulic power controlled either individually or collectively from the navigating bridge as well as from the door itself. A complete system of wireless telegraphy, including a large installation and apparatus for taking submarine signalling, has been installed. Submarine signalling and electric cables are fitted, also the most modern type of gyro compass, three various automatic devices giving increased safety in navigation. The vessel has been fitted with a few large bilge keels to minimise rolling, and she is also fitted with special heeling tanks on the ship's side by means of which she can be kept upright at all times. Large provision store rooms, both insulated and ordinary, are arranged for.

PROPELLING MACHINERY.

The ship is propelled by two "Curtis Parsons" combination turbines driving twin screws and fitted with Föttinger transformer gear. The two sets of engines together will indicate about 18,000 s.h.p. The boiler installation comprises fourteen water tube boilers fitted with three furnaces each, the working pressure being 240 lbs. per sq. in. The vessel was originally fitted with coal bunkers, and was intended to burn coal on service. In order that her speed may be fully maintained, and taking into account the great advantages which are obtained with oil fuel on passenger ships, she has been, during her recent fitting out, fitted with oil fuel bunkers for carrying oil fuel and a complete installation for burning oil fuel in the boilers has been installed. This will make it quite certain that the vessel will be able to maintain her speed and time schedule with more certainty than if she had remained a coal-burning ship. The installation of auxiliary machinery is very complete, the steam heating, electric lighting and refrigerating plants are all most up to date, and ensure that the comfort of passengers in respect of these matters is amply provided for.

MARRIED 7 WOMEN.

A "PROFESSIONAL BIGAMIST."

A man who married six women in addition to his lawful wife was sentenced to five years penal servitude at the Old Bailey. He was Arthur Lazarus, 31, a kitchen porter, a Russian by birth and it was stated all his bigamous wives were unfortunately of foreign nationality, who married him to become British subjects. Mr. H. D. Roome, who prosecuted, described him as a professional bigamist. He pleaded guilty and said that he was asked to marry the woman by foreigners whom he met in West End public-houses. In the first case a man offered him £20 to marry the girl, and he was given that amount immediately after the ceremony at the Marylebone Register Office. He never lived with the girl. The other marriages were at register offices at Lambeth, Shepherd's Bush, Paddington, Holborn, and at St. George's, Hanover-square. He left his "wives" at the office doors, receiving sums for marrying them varying from £12 to £20.

Inspector Frank Everleigh said Lazarus was a member of a gang that lived on prostitution, but he would not disclose the names of his associates. Their object in getting the women married was to prevent their deportation in case of conviction. Lazarus married three of the women between December 9 and December 31, 1921.

GOOD TIME COMING.

PERFECT ION IN 1925, SAYS AMERICAN JUDGE.

Ten thousand men and women listening solemnly to the statement that in 1925 will come an era when bald headed men will become bachelors, the dead will rise, and undertakers will go out of business—this was the somewhat curious spectacle presented by the interior of the Royal Albert Hall in mail week. The speaker was Judge Rutherford, an American and the president of the International Bible Students' Association, who claims that the Scriptures show that by 1925 the world's troubles will reach a climax and then subside, followed quickly by the "reign of all nations; namely, peace, prosperity, life, liberty, and happiness." Millions of people then, he claims, will be restored to perfection and live upon the earth for ever. The audience contained as many women as, if not more than, men. For the most part they were very serious-looking people, and save for an occasional outburst of applause and a few interruptions they listened in silence. Judge Rutherford's address, which was thickly studded with scriptural quotations.

THE TELEPHONE HANDBOOK.

The Second issue of the TELEPHONE HANDBOOK is published TO-DAY.

The TELEPHONE HANDBOOK consists of an up-to-date and accurate index of Telephone Subscribers, the numbers being given in sequence.

The TELEPHONE HANDBOOK has met a want which has long been felt amongst users of the Telephone, as it provides an easy means of ascertaining the name of the Subscriber without the necessity of a search through the ordinary alphabetical directory.

The TELEPHONE HANDBOOK costs $1 per copy and is sold on the strict understanding that on the publication of a new one the old one will be returned to the publishers. This proviso is made in the interests of Subscribers in view of the frequent changes that take place.

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

UNSETTLED IRELAND.

LONDON, August 5th.
After exceptionally hard fighting, the National forces captured Kilmainham, which was the irregulars' principal point of supply.

BRITISH WORLD FLIGHT.

DELHI, August 5th.
Major Blake, the British airman, has arrived.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

GENEVA, August 5th.
The Mandates Commission of the League of Nations has drafted observations to be presented to the League on the reports regarding Japanese Mandates.

THREATENED DOCKERS' STRIKE.

LONDON, August 5th.
The prospect of a dockers' strike has been averted, following on the decision by the Conference of National Transport Workers to assent to the terms reached with the Employers' Federation in regard to the latter's demand that a reduction in wages of two shillings daily be made, thereby bringing down the minimum wage to ten shillings daily.

The final terms are not yet published, but it is believed the two shillings deduction is spread over several months.

An arrangement has been made for the stabilisation of wages for that period.

PRINTING TRADE STRIKE.

LONDON, August 5th.
There are indications that the Printing Trade dispute is fading out, the Typographical Union members in several provincial centres having agreed to resume work in accordance with the terms of the Industrial Court Award.

U. S. A. RAILWAY STRIKE.

WASHINGTON, August 5th.
The Pennsylvania Railway states that the greatest single day's resumption of strikers occurred to-day, namely, 387, making 46,000 employees working compared with 60,157 normally.

SINO-JAPANESE COMMISSION.

PEKING, August 2nd.
At the meeting of the first session of the Sino-Japanese Commission, the Chinese delegates proposed that such public properties as harbours, administration buildings, light-houses, etc., be dealt with by a customs' sub-committee. The Japanese promised to reply after consideration of the Chinese proposal.

The Japanese agreed to transfer public properties formerly under the Postal Administration to a sub-committee of posts and telegraphs for study. Other important matters were discussed.

WHOLESALE DEPRECIATIONS BY EX-SOLDIERS.

HANKOW, August 4th.
Reports from Kukiang state that on Wednesday night 700 of General Chen Kwang Yuen's soldiers mutinied and demanded large sums of money from the Merchants' Associations. Being refused, they proceeded to loot and burn the city. The foreign concession was not damaged. In the city about $3,000,000 was looted and 200 shops burnt. The city is now quiet, the robbers having departed to the country.

ENGLISH EDUCATION FOR CHINESE STUDENTS.

LONDON, August 5th.
In the House of Commons, Sir W. De Frece suggested that in view of the importance of the matter to British Trade, the report of Sir John Jordan's Committee on the education of Chinese students in England, should be submitted to the Chambers of Commerce, Mr. Cecil Harcourt (Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs) replied that it would be premature to do so until the Government and the other Powers concerned had decided the attitude to be adopted towards the resumption of Boxer indemnity payments in December.

MR. ALFRED SEE RETURNS TO AMERICA.

LONDON, August 5th.
Mr. Alfred See, Chinese Minister to Washington, has returned to America, accompanied by his children, who are on school vacation.

Cloth.—The varying crop new has been accompanied by rather violent fluctuations in the raw material with the result that buyers of piece goods appear to have lost confidence for the time being.

The week has not been an idle one but the volume of business actually booked is very much smaller than that done last week.

Opinions as to the crop possibilities are sharply divided. Whilst the bulls talk of the bull-weather the bears point out that conditions we date follow closely those of other years in which the crop has been heavy.

There is a large enquiry about from all parts, but bids are in most cases far too low.

India has bought largely of dhoties and "light goods" and apparently wants more. China has made some purchases and appears to be regaining confidence in its internal political situation.

The smaller Eastern markets have also booked a few lines. South America is apparently recovering and has started buying fair quantities.

European exchanges on New York are weaker owing to seasonal fluctuations. German marks have depreciated on the news of the murder of the foreign Minister.

The Egyptian Government has prohibited the false folding and misleading marking of piece goods. This is an example which might well be followed by other countries, notably by the Netherlands East Indies where it is still customary to import piece goods marked 40 folds without marking the actual length of the pieces.

"SPIRITUAL" LOVE OF A HUSBAND.

GIFTS FROM ELDERLY WOMEN FRIENDS.

A suit in which a 65-years-old woman was accused of adultery with a man of 39 was concluded in the Divorce Division in mail week. Mrs. Tyra Gouborg Lowther, a Swede by birth, charged her husband, Mr. John Brabazon Lowther, a singer, with desertion and with adultery with the intervenor, Mrs. Annie Gertrude Roxburgh. The charges were denied.

Mrs. Lowther's case was that she and Mr. Lowther were married in October 1919, but she said the marriage was never consummated and she alleged that her husband had abnormal tendencies.

Mr. Lowther, giving evidence said Mrs. Roxburgh lived at a Buxton boarding-house, where he gave singing lessons.

Mr. Barnard (his counsel): Have you ever committed adultery with Mrs. Roxburgh? Never.

Cross-examined by Sir Edward Marshall Hall: Were you in love with your wife when you proposed marriage?—Yes.

Are you in love with her still?—No. When did you cease to be in love with her?—When we came to London I realised that we had nothing in common.

When was that?—About ten days before the marriage.

You admit that you have never consummated the marriage?—I do. Do you say you did not consummate the marriage because you did not want this particular woman?—Yes.

You first knew Mrs. Roxburgh in 1900, when you were 26?—Yes.

Mrs. Roxburgh is a woman of considerable means?—Some means.

Was she a paying guest at the Rochester terrace boarding house? Yes.

GIFTS FROM WOMEN.

Did Mrs. Roxburgh make you a present of a grand piano?—No.

Who did give it to you?—A friend who lived near, Mrs. Barlow.

Did a woman give you a fur coat?—Yes.

Who was that?—Mrs. Barlow.

Did the same woman give you a dressing case?—Yes.

Are you in the habit of receiving presents from women older than yourself?—I should not call it a habit.

Mrs. Roxburgh gave you a motor-car?—Yes.

How much did you contribute towards it?—£20.

Is there any affection between you and Mrs. Roxburgh?—Yes, as old friends.

No sexual friendship of any kind?—Certainly not.

"SPIRITUAL LOVE."

Counsel read some letters Mr. Lowther wrote to his wife before the marriage.

My Beloved,—Since you left yesterday, you have more than filled my soul with love of you, which love is expressed only and entirely in a deep and fervent desire for your welfare and happiness. . . . It is not that I do not love you and reverence you, for all your beauty and character have awakened in me the deepest love a man can bear a woman. But because this intense spiritual love is not expressed outwardly I feel that often I appear cold and unsympathetic.

I am sure this will cause misunderstanding. I begin to realise that I am not your soul mate. That your love for me is wonderful, the most wonderful thing I have known, I can never question. My love for you is the same, but I really cannot help realising that my love is divided. . . . My beloved one, we are not children. . . . you and I, but great individuals ranged only on the side of right and truth and both too great to be weak or fearful. We are profoundly intent on fulfilling our destinies. . . . If you feel I am right and you feel in your heart it is best for your welfare, I want you to know that you are released from any obligation to stay with me.

My happiness will be to let you go and find, if you can, your soul's desire. . . . I beg of you to make your own decision entirely as you feel for your own happiness, for that is the only thing that will make mine. . . . You will be "my Swede" just the same.

I cannot help thinking you would be far happier in the freer United States than in our poor limited little England.

Mr. Lowther said he wanted to give his wife happiness by giving her freedom. At this time he was staying in the house kept by three elderly women, the Misses B—.

In October 1920 he wrote again: Darling Mine—I know my words are true, that I can be far more to you as your devoted friend than as your husband. It is not that I do not love you. I love you so much that I ask you to save yourself. . . .

You have awakened in me a spiritual love and a spirituality beyond expression. That is the ideal I have striven for. Woman stands for spirituality, the spiritual idea and, as such, she is to be understood.

Sir Edward: Do you suggest that was a genuine letter?—I do.

I suggest it was a hypocritical letter of the worst possible kind, written when your soul was full of filth?—It was not.

MARRIAGE VILLAGE.

HOLIDAY-MAKERS' ROMANCES.

Lovers claim to have found in Minister Thant, a place where they can be married with at least some of the romance and adventure of Gretna Green. Mr. Arthur Roberts, the comedian, took his bride to this spot for his wedding ceremony and about 150 other couples make the same romantic journey every year.

Miss or Mrs. near Ramagata and Margate and is swept by the breezes of the sea, which is not far away.

There is a ruin of an old manor house, once occupied by monks, and legends abound. It is not so long ago that the curfew used to ring during the winter months. Minister is a central spot for the holiday resorts on the Thanet coast, and the office of the superintendent registrar for Thanet is situated in the little village of 2,500 inhabitants.

The couples come by train and motor-car. Some have been known to cycle in for the momentous hour. They nearly always go to the coast for their honeymoon.

During the war four big camps were in the neighbourhood, and the registrar has never been quite so busy since.

SCENE WITH HIS FATHER.

Sir Edward suggested that after these letters when Mr. Lowther met his wife she said: "You are free, dear." He replied, "You will always be my friend just the same." Mr. Lowther agreed, but said when his father, Col. Lowther, heard of the breaking off of the engagement he (the colonel) became enraged, raised his stick as if to strike his son, whom he called "a big cad, a big ass," and said the marriage must take place, otherwise he would have to leave home.

Sir Edward: And this woman to whom you married two days later?—I do not think that is the way to put it.

I suggest it was in your mind that you were lost unless you got some respectable woman to marry you?—That was not in my mind.

Mr. Lowther denied the suggestion that his wife once discovered him lying on a sofa with two of the Misses B's with their arms round him and kissing him.

Asked about using cosmetics for his face, Mr. Lowther retorted that he simply used cold cream after shaving. The Misses B. were old friends and his friendship for Mrs. Roxburgh was purely platonic. They may have kissed half-a-dozen times, he said.

Mrs. Roxburgh, stating that her age was 65, said she had been separated from her husband for 26 years. She denied any misconduct with Mr. Lowther. She had only "a motherly affection" for him.

Replying to suggestions about her association with Mr. Lowther, she remarked, "Well, I thought old age protected one but I find it doesn't."

After the absence of an hour and a quarter the jury intimated that they were not all agreed on certain questions.

Sir Henry Duke addressed them on the points and in the result the jury found no adultery had been committed. The petition was dismissed, the intervenor, Mrs. Roxburgh, being dismissed from the suit with her costs.

LEAGUE TENNIS.

INDIANS' SUCCESSFUL SEASON.

WINNERS OF BOTH DIVISION.

The Indian Recreation Club has added fresh laurels to its comparative short but splendid record by winning both divisions of the Hongkong Lawn Tennis League this season, which was closed on Saturday afternoon when two league shields were presented to the champions by Mrs. Claud Severn, in the presence of a large gathering of tennis enthusiasts.

Prior to the presentation, the spectators were treated to some excellent exhibition matches on the I.R.C. courts at Sookumpoo Valley, between teams representing the winners of both the A. and B. divisions, and the Rest of the League. The Rest represented a formidable combination against the champions, but although they lost to both visiting teams, the Indians put up a stiff fight, which was worthy of their championship.

In the "A" Division the champions started well and led 19-14 at the end of the first set of games. In the second set they were only able to hold their own with 33 games all. The Rest asserted themselves in the third set and the Indians were beaten badly, winning only 7 games out of 35. The champions' defeat was due to their lack of stamina against their older and more experienced opponents, but considering that every one of the Indian players is scarcely of his teens yet, the plucky stand they made in the first two sets won the admiration of the spectators.

The Indian players in the "B" Division matches also gave a good account of themselves and lost by 69 games to their 40.

Among the large gathering who witnessed the match were: His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government (Hon. Mr. Claud Severn, C.M.G.) who was accompanied by Mrs. Severn and Mrs. Bullock, Dr. Forsyth (President of the Tennis League), Mr. Hugh Nibbet, the Rev. Copley-Moyle, Mr. U. Rumjahn and many others.

Tea was served during the afternoon, while the string band of the K.E.O. Grenadiers provided excellent music.

RESULTS.

Following are the results of the various matches:—

"A" DIVISION.

O. and H. D. Rumjahn beat Ng Sz Kwong and Lieut-Commander Worthington, 8-3; lost to R. and H. Hancock, 4-7; lost to Townsend and Fincher, 3-8.

A. H. and S. A. Rumjahn beat R. and H. Hancock, 6-5; lost to Ng Sz Kwong and Lieut-Commander Worthington, 3-8.

A. A. Rumjahn and S. H. Ismail lost to Townsend and Fincher, 5-6; lost to Ng Sz Kwong and Lieut-Commander Worthington, 4-7; lost to R. and H. Hancock, 1-10.

Total: Rest of League 59 games; I.R.C. 40 games.

"B" DIVISION.

O. Ismail and S. Moosden lost to Curreen and Ip Kau, 2-9; lost to Kwok and Ho, 5-6; lost to Buschaert and Yamazaki, 5-6.

E. el Arculli and S. A. Ismail lost to Curreen and Ip Kau, 4-7; lost to Kwok and Ho, 5-6; lost to Buschaert and Yamazaki, 4-7.

S. A. Hossain and I. Hassan beat Curreen and Ip Kau, 7-4; lost to Kwok and Ho, 5-6; lost to Buschaert and Yamazaki, 3-8.

Total: Rest of League 59 games; I.R.C., 40 games.

PRESENTATION OF TROPHIES.

In inviting Mrs. Severn to present the league shields to the I.R.C., Dr. Forsyth congratulated the winners on their double success.

Mrs. Severn then presented the trophies as follows:—

The Tennis Shield and Medal "A" Division.—Won by the Indian Recreation Club. Team, A. A. Rumjahn, A. H. Rumjahn, S. A. Rumjahn, O. Rumjahn, H. D. Rumjahn, S. H. Ismail and S. D. Ismail.

The Tennis League Shield and Medal, "B" Division.—Won by the Indian Recreation Club. Team, O. Ismail, E. el Arculli, S. A. Ismail, I. Hassan, S. H. Hossain, A. el Arculli, S. Casumbboy.

Mr. U. Rumjahn then asked Mrs. Severn to present the Club prizes and in doing so gave some interesting facts relating to the rise of the Club since its formation in 1918 with 70 members. Its membership roll now numbered 160.

CLUB PRIZES.

The Club prizes were presented by Mrs. Severn as follows.

M.P.s AND GAMING REFORMS.

MAN WHO KEPT HIS HEAD.

The Gaming Bill, which repeals the law under which betting debts paid by cheque can be recovered, came up for third reading in the House of Commons in mail week.

Sir E. Barty-Denniss protested that the Bill was not confined to cheques. Section 2 of the Act of 1835 (which was to be repealed) dealt with mortgages as well as cheques. A man sitting at the gaming table might mortgage his property and cripple himself and his heirs for ever. He said he had been told of a gaming man who arranged with a club steward to supply him with coloured water while the others with whom he played drank whisky. It ought to be possible to recover money gained under those circumstances. (Cheers.)

"Some real effort ought to be made to clean up the racecourses of this country," said Mr. Simm, who protested that they were infested with betting men of the lowest type. "Every racecourse company ought to be compelled to see that book-makers attending there registered," he added.

Sir E. Barty-Denniss's speech raised many doubts, and an effort was made to secure the adjournment of the debate, but Sir John Baird, Under Secretary, Home Office, gave an assurance that there was no ground for the fears raised, and the third reading was agreed to.

EINSTEIN TO VISIT J. P. N.

At the invitation of the Kwazoshan or Reform Association in Japan, Professor Albert Einstein will pay a visit to Japan next November. The Professor will be accompanied by Mr. Einstein, and is expected to leave Berlin immediately after his attendance at the central celebration of the German Natural Science Association to be held on September 21, at Leipzig. The Professor will stay in Japan for a month, in the course of which he will give a series of six special lectures at the Imperial University, Tokyo to the Japanese students, who take a special interest in the Einstein theory, and also two public lectures in Tokyo, and others in Osaka, Kyoto, Sapporo and several other cities.

THOUGHTS AT FORTY.

In the case of his health a man, it has been said, is either a fool or a physician at 40. For the average man it should not be difficult to be healthy and in his prime at that age.

With the weaker sex the case is different, for this sex is liable to cling with its anxiety and health trials; nevertheless, many women suffer more than their men.

Actually, whether the individual be a man or woman, if the ailments arise from anaemia, nervousness, indigestion, or anything else connected with a faulty blood supply, the remedy is new blood. So, if blood troubles have assailed you, if your nerves are weak, if you lack stamina and your health is not what it should be, you can enjoy new health by the simple expedient of renewing your blood.

To renew your blood begin to-day a short course of Dr. Williams' pink pills; then as the new blood which they make flows through your veins you will gain fresh energy, new strength, a keen appetite, and full, vigorous health. If a man, your wife will know the joy it is to be strong; if a woman, you will be gratified with a bright, womanly health.

Any dealer can supply you with Dr. Williams' pink pills, or direct from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 241 South Second Street, Lowell, Mass., U.S.A. Write for a free book of health, by postcard to the above address.

EARL'S LOVE STORY.

GIRL WHO WAS 'GOOD PAL'.

WIFE IN ALL BUT NAME.

The love romance of the late Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot was disclosed when the hearing was continued in the Probate Division before Sir Henry Duke and a Special Jury of the action concerning his will dated September 1920. He died in May 1921, aged 60.

The will, which leaves a large amount of property to the intervenor in the action, Mrs. Eleanor Whyte Brownlee, is contested by the present earl, a boy of 7 and a grandson of the dead man, who appears by his guardian, the Marquis of Anglesey. He alleges that at the time of the will the earl was not of sound mind and that the will was made under the undue influence of Mrs. Brownlee. The net value of the estate is about £161,000.

Mr. Priestley, K.C., for the plaintiff and executor, Mr. Llewellyn Wynne McLeod, explained that by the will now in dispute the earl revoked all former wills and, after making certain dispositions of his property, gave Mrs. Brownlee the leasehold house in Portland-place, W., with the bulk of its contents. Annuities of £250 a year went to the earl's sisters, and, subject to certain trusts, the whole of the remainder of the estate was given to Mrs. Brownlee.

Sir Henry Duke: Is the net effect of the last will to revoke any disposition there had been in favour of the family and substitute Mrs. Brownlee?—Yes, my lord.

MEETS GIRL OF 20.

Mr. Priestley, continuing, said that the earl separated from his wife in 1896, and 14 years later made the acquaintance of Mrs. Brownlee, then 20. They were mutually attracted and became great friends. Unfortunately, said counsel, the earl was unable to marry her, although he sincerely desired to do so and it was a great sorrow that he could not. They lived together as man and wife in every way, except according to the law of the land.

In 1912 at Goring-on-Thames he built a residence, intending that it should belong to Mrs. Brownlee. When the earl was ill she nursed him with the devotion of a wife, for which he was deeply grateful. As early as 1913 the earl added a codicil to his existing will leaving Mrs. Brownlee an annuity of £2,000.

Counsel, continuing, said when Vincent Ingestro (the earl's son) died in 1915 it was necessary for the earl to make another will (not in dispute), which he did in June 1915. The will also gave an annuity of £2,000 to Mrs. Brownlee. In June 1915 the earl entered an institution for an operation, and while there he executed a codicil giving Mrs. Brownlee certain pearls and jewellery. There was also a clause giving Mrs. Brownlee certain horses, saying it was his wish that her hunting should cost her nothing or as little as possible.

EARL INVENTS TYRE.

Counsel said the late earl was the inventor of the Shrewsbury-Talbot tyre which were put on hansom cabs years ago, and when motoring began he formed the company which afterwards became the Clement-Talbot Company. After the trouble which had arisen with the Anglesey family (the late Lord Ingestro's wife was a member of the Anglesey family) it became obvious that there was a desire to get the earl off the chairmanship of the Clement-Talbot Company, and by a preponderance of voting interest that was accomplished in December 1918. The late earl felt that Lord Anglesey had been casting in his votes with those with whom he was not in agreement and that that was a hostile act.

In 1918 the earl wrote to Mr. McLeod stating that owing to his life being in a precarious state he desired to alter his will, but that he could not make a new one until the question of the Ingestro estates was settled. "I think the estate will be just as well in other hands," he added.

Mr. Llewellyn McLeod, in evidence, said he acted as the earl's solicitor since the earl was 18. In 1896 the earl and his wife separated by mutual consent, Lady Shrewsbury having £1,000 a year and the right to live at the family seat, Alton Towers.

Mr. Douglas Hogg, K.C., who appeared with Mr. Priestley, K.C., further examined Mr. McLeod.

I want you to tell us what you know about the earl's connection with Mrs. Brownlee—I think I first met her in 1912. Afterwards when I went to see the earl in London I met her at the house. It seemed to me that Mrs. Brownlee was treated in every way, as far as I could see, as the earl's wife.

Did the earl express to you his intentions with regard to Mrs. Brownlee?—He consulted me with a view to marrying Mrs. Brownlee, if possible, and I had to advise him that as the law stood it was not practicable.

KOREAN SHELL DIVERS.

An American lady missionary in Korea paid a visit to the island of Chaiju, which lies out in the Pacific two days' sail by a little Japanese steamer. On this island there is a community of Korean Christians. The missionary writes:—

Among the women in my bible-classes are some who are professional divers; and yesterday we rowed out to see them at work. In a natural cave by the seaside a group of these women were putting on white cotton bathing-suits. Their bodies were lithe and active, and as they followed their leader along a black reef far into the water, their graceful outlines were silhouetted against the blue sky. To the right wrist was tied a circular knife with which the diver cuts the seaweed and mussels from the rocks below. Each woman carried a huge yellow gourd, attached to a netted bag, which floated upon the top of the waves as the swimmer plunged into the clear depths below. Forty feet deep they went down, and nothing could be lovelier than to watch their bodies darting through the vivid green of the ocean-gardens. After a few moments with a flash of white arms the divers came to the surface with shells and limp weed in their hands. They swam quickly to where the gourds and nets were floating, rested a moment with their arms about the gourds, then like mermaids plunged again to the caverns beneath. To foreigners who had known only the women of Korea upon the mainland, this was a new experience; for we had never dreamed that they were capable of the skill and self-assertion that these divers show.

What sort of terms were they on with regard to one another?—I should say terms of affection, friendship and respect.

Did you ever see any signs of Mrs. Brownlee bullying the earl?—Oh, dear no; nothing of the sort.

WISHED TO MARRY HER.

What sort of a man was the earl from that point of view?—I should say he was an extremely dangerous man to bully or try to coerce in any way.

Did you ever see Mrs. Brownlee try to influence him?—Yes. In March 1921, just before he left for France, I had luncheon with him and Mrs. Brownlee. She complained she had heard rumours that she was keeping the earl apart from his family and making mischief, in fact acting as a sort of go-between, putting him under lock and key. Mrs. Brownlee suggested that for his own dignity the earl ought to stop these rumours. But he replied, "I don't care what they say. Let them say what they like." Then Mrs. Brownlee said she thought that as he was going to France and his sisters were in London he ought to call on them and say good-bye. He refused, saying he did not want to see them and they did not want to see him. Then when Mrs. Brownlee showed a certain amount of temper the earl simply laughed at her.

Referring to the last will, Mr. McLeod said that as soon as he learned the earl wanted to leave the residue of his estate to Mrs. Brownlee he pointed out to him that his daughter and grandchildren had claims upon him. The earl replied that he had considered the matter, adding that his grandson would come in to about £50,000 a year. As to his daughter, he said he had already settled a sum of money on her, and appointed her £109 a year out of the settled estate.

"A GOOD PAL" TO HIM.

About Mrs. Brownlee and the residue, the earl said she had given him the best years of her life, and had been "a d—good pal" to him the whole time. The earl went through the will line by line, and repeated his belief that his will would be disputed after his death. But he said, "If it is, don't give way."

Was the earl sane at this time?—He was exactly the same as he had been for the past 40 years—perfectly clear and very shrewd.

The suggestion that the earl suffered from chronic alcoholism Mr. McLeod said was incredible to him. He never saw any sign of drink or of anomaly of the brain as alleged.

It is suggested that he saw animals in his bedroom. Did you ever notice anything of that kind?—No.

In cross-examination by Sir John Simon, K.C., for the boy earl, Mr. McLeod said the only communication he ever had from Mrs. Brownlee in respect of the earl's will was a telephone message from her that the earl wished some little alteration made in his will. The message, which came within a fortnight of the earl's death, was to the effect that Lord Shrewsbury wanted her to have the maintenance at Portland-place for life and the linen at Ingestro. About August 1920 the earl consulted him about Lady Shrewsbury divorcing him so that he could marry Mrs. Brownlee. Was Mrs. Brownlee willing to marry him?—I do not know.

The hearing was adjourned.

THE P. & O. HOUSE-FLAG.

The origin of the P. & O. Company's house-flag is sometimes a subject of enquiry says The Blue Peter. In the second issue of The Blue Peter there was published a short history which recalled the service rendered in 1832 by Messrs Wilcox & Anderson, the Company's forerunners, to the Queen of Portugal. The first association of Messrs Wilcox & Anderson with Portugal was of earlier date, as their vessels, sail or steam, had for some years previously been regularly plying between Falmouth, Lisbon, Cadiz and Gibraltar. It was from these early connections with the Iberian Peninsula that the house-flag was evolved. The luff or inner side of the Portuguese royal flag was blue; the outer half being white; superimposed in the centre of the flag were the Portuguese royal arms. From this flag were derived the blue and white triangular upper quarters of the house-flag, the red and yellow of the flag of Spain furnishing, by adoption, the colours which fill the lower triangle. The earliest extant representation of the flag show some divergence from the form in which it is known to-day. In contemporary pictures of the "Royal Tar" (304 tons, built 1832), "Jupiter" (630 tons, built 1835), "Braganza" (638 tons, built 1838) the flag is shown as a pennant; with the yellow quartering at the top, flown by the two earlier vessels at the fore and by the last-named at the main.

The picture of the "Braganza" above alluded to shows the gunports the gun ports on the lower deck, and similar ports opening outwards from the main saloon beneath the poop, and it may be recalled that the earlier contracts for the carriage of mails were made, not with the Post Office, but with the Admiralty. Under the contract of 22 August, 1837, made between the Admiralty and Richard Bourne on behalf of the "Peninsular & Oriental Steam Packet Company," it was stipulated that an officer of His Majesty's Navy should be carried on board the mail packets as Agent of the Government. In the contract of 26 August, 1840, it was a condition that the ships by which the service was to be carried on should be constructed "to carry 4 guns of the largest calibre now used in the Navy." It was a part of the Mail Contract of 1 January, 1853, that ships over 1100 tons driven by paddle wheels, were to be fitted for carrying and firing one 10-inch piece at the bow and, as a stern pivot, one 32 pounder, and four 32-pounders as a broadside; while screw-driven ships of 1100 tons and upwards were to carry, and did, eight 32 pounders. Later contracts, made with the Post Office, contained no stipulations as to guns, the practice of carrying which in the Eastern mail steamers thus fell into disuse. But the P. & O. steamers continued to carry heavy stands of small arms. In the Red Sea and China Seas ships were for a long time liable to be attacked by pirates, especially in the event of temporary stoppage through accident to their machinery.

With the lengthening of the P. & O. routes and the extension to India, China and Australia of the company's obligations, the connection with Iberian ports, save Gibraltar, came to an end. But in the house-flag a continual reminder survives of the days when the little steamers of the line first began to ply across the Bay carrying mails, passengers or cargo to Portugal and Spain.

GERMAN HOSPITALITY.

The rice merchants of Moulmein have been, says a Rangoon paper, making merry over the windfall that befel them through the buying by a German firm of over thirty thousand tons of rice shipped to Europe. Messrs. Bong Hunt and Co., are the local agents of the German firm and their Moulmein partner, Mr. Bong Chwan, has been most hospitable in entertaining his numerous friends at dinner-parties given in the old M.V.A. drill on the Strand. The shed had been converted into a temporary saloon-manger with flags, foliage and dozens of electric bulbs lit from a dynamo seated in a Ford bus and driven by petrol-power. The guests were accommodated at a long table laid out in European style and the viands were prepared and cooked by a Chinese chef who had acquired a knowledge of his art in London. There were altogether ten dinner-parties given consecutively from Thursday night, June 15, until the 25th instant, the first two and the last one by Messrs. Bong Hunt and Co.; the others were either by individual friends or by the members of the Chinese Rice Merchants' Association of Moulmein. At each of the dinner-parties an anglo-pyrrho from Rangoon was present and helped to entertain the guests of whom there were about an average of about fifty each night.

TWICE A DAY TAKE SANATOGEN
 (The True Tonic Food)

It will increase your vitality—tone up your nerves—and invigorate your whole system.

Sanatogen twice a day means a better day's work—means greater energy and staying-power—means that you feel brighter, fresher, and keener all day, in spite of this depressing climate. Try it!

A famous Professor of Physiology has demonstrated in the "Lancet" "the increased vitality in the blood and nervous system—especially in the cells of the brain and spinal cord—after feeding with Sanatogen. . . . But the improvement is not limited to the blood and nerve cells. It affects in a pronounced manner and in a remarkably short time every cell in the body which counts for health purposes."

food; it must do good and cannot do harm. That is why doctors give it even to babies. And that is why so many people in the tropics take San-atogen regularly all the year round—not as an occasional tonic, but as part of their daily diet.

Never forget that Sanatogen is a food, not a medicine or a "secret remedy." It increases nerve-energy by feeding the nerves—nothy gauding them with drug-stimulants. Its action is as natural as that of any ordinary
